Oregon, Nevada Also Hit By Storms

California Coast Pounded By Floods, Gale Force Winds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rain swollen rivers surged through hundreds of evacuated homes in Northern California today, pushed against hurriedly built sandbag dikes in Reno, Nev., and blocked traffic on main east-west highway and rail routes across the Sierra.

Gale force winds pounded the Northern California Coast a third straight day and began an attack on the Oregon Coast.

The battering wind and rain was the power head of a chain of storms raging in the Pacific, from northwest of Hawaii to the mainland.

Gusts up to 70 miles an hour lashed the Hawaiian Islands Thursday closing Honolulu Harbor and forcing a jet liner carrying England's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip from Edmonton, Alberta, to Honolulu to turn back to Vancouver, B.C.

In California five deaths were blamed on the storm. A boy was missing.

There was no immediate relief in sight. The Weather Bureau said the Pacific storm chain was driving eastward, its series of storm centers aimed at the Oregon and Washington coasts.

The storms meant snow for chilly western Washington where two inches was expected by this morning. The Yakima Valley area of central Washington, which received 14 inches of snow Thursday, expected an additional 8 to 10 inches. Snow was general in eastern Washington and many schools were closed throughout the state.

Wind gusts up to 55 m.p.h. freed western Oregon from four days of snow and ice. As the thaw extended to northern Oregon it produced rain which froze on still cold power lines, pulled them down and blacked out vast areas from the coast 100 miles inland. Thousands of homes in the Portland area were without power today.

In Northern California and Nevada the warming rain and snow melt produced more water than the rivers could carry.

At Reno, National Guard troops sandbagged the Truckee River which runs through the city. Gambling continued normally in nearby casinos. Four bridges in downtown Reno were closed as a safety measure but city officials said they were not in immediate danger of being washed out.

The rising Truckee caused the Truck Rams Store In West Point

A Wellsville truck driver was injured when he lost control of his cab in West Point Thursday afternoon at 2:45 and rammed into Bergman's Store.

Frank Sims, 34, was treated by a local doctor for bruises of the left leg and knee.

The Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol said Sims was speeding on the curved section of Rt. 45 when he lost control of his vehicle, slid over an embankment and struck the grocery and general store.

Ed Bergman, proprietor of the business, housed in a Quonset hut, said the truck crashed through the corrugated steel at one side of the store and smashed into several boxes of soft drinks. Value of the damage was not estimated.

The trucker was cited for driving at excessive speed.

Involved in a rear end collision Thursday night at 11:15, James E. Elliott, 67, of East Liverpool was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Patrolmen from the Lisbon post reported Elliott's auto struck the rear of a car driven by Robert E. White, 24, of East Liverpool on Rt. 7, just north of the Wellsville corporation limits. White was traveling north and turning west when Elliott's car struck.

Reno Airport to close Thursday night.

In Napa, about 35 air miles northeast of San Francisco, the Napa River ran bank full, closing several of the main streets and causing some 40 persons to leave their homes.

Merchants, their employees and Sea Scouts filled sandbags for use in the downtown area of Napa, if needed.

Suddenly rising temperatures sent melted snow gushing into Bancroft in southeastern Idaho, flooding basements and forcing stores to move out stock.

A chinook wind raised Denver's temperature from 46 to 53 degrees in 15 minutes and two hours later another boosted it four degrees in one minute.

Temperature Averaged 1.93 Degrees

Last Month Fifth Coldest January

Last month carved an icy niche in district weather history as the fifth coldest January on record, Edwin Copeland, Millport weather observer, said today.

Copeland said last month's average temperature was more than 25 degrees under the January average for the past 70 years. He reported January's average was 1.93 degrees, while the average since the early 1890's when his father began keeping records, was 27 degrees for the month.

The coldest January was in 1918 when the average temperatures was 1.31 degrees, only a half a degree colder than last month's. Last month was the coldest January since 1945.

While the entire month was bone-chilling, Mother Nature got into the deep-freeze business the final week when on the 29th district residents were astounded by the recordings on their thermometers.

In Millport that day the mercury plunged to 23 below zero, making that date the fifth coldest on record and the coldest day since Feb. 28, 1934. Copeland's records show the coldest day for the 70-year period was Jan. 13, 1912 when it dropped to a minus 28.

Jan. 29 was also remarkable for the extreme variation in temperatures which ranged from the low of 23 below to a high of 27, a 50-degree rise. "You seldom see that much variation in a 24-hour period," Copeland commented.

The extreme cold brought great duress to the district as schools shut down, cars balked, water froze and families were marooned.

Red Cross Board Elects Bowman

George H. Bowman Jr., local attorney, was elected chairman of North Columbiana County Chapter of American Red Cross when the board members held their quarterly meeting Thursday night in the Farmers National Bank building.

Atty. Bowman, who served as chapter vice chairman for the past year, replaces William McKay.

A permanent resident of Salem since 1932, Bowman has served as city councilman, member of Civil Service Commission, president of the Historical Society, director of the Chamber of Commerce, secretary of Rotary Club, director of Civil Defense, treasurer of SAIDC and district chairman of Boy Scouts of America. He is presently serving on the executive board of Columbiana Council, BSA, and is a director of SAIDC.

Others elected to office are: First vice chairman, Rev. T. G. S. Whitney; second vice chairman, Louis J. Raymond Jr.; treasurer, Wells Vaughters; assistant treasurer, Urban Lepping; secretary, Mrs. L. A. Way Jr. of Columbiana; and councilor, Mrs. M. W. Riegel.

McKay opened the meeting and Dr. F. R. Crowe gave the nominating committee's report. Mrs. Hobart Butcher, executive direc-

Trapeze Artist Flees Vopos on Power Cable

BERLIN (AP)—It was quite a feat anyway.

Sliding along on the seat of his pants, an East German trapeze artist fled over the heads of Communist border guards into West Berlin on a power cable.

The cable normally carries 110,000 voltage—but West Berlin police said it long had been out of use when Horst Klein, 36, made his escape Dec. 27.

Klein said he "could hear humming and had a tickling sensation in my seat"—but apparently this was psychological because the police spokesman said there was no power in the cable.

A professional trapeze artist, Klein was banned from appearing in East German circuses because he was an outspoken anti-Communist.

"I couldn't live any longer without the smell of the circus in my nostrils," he told newsmen Thursday night.

On the night of Dec. 27 he climbed a steel tower on the Communist side of the Berlin wall and leaped to the big porcelain insulator on the cable.

What was running through his mind—and probably gave him the sensations he reported feeling—was "if I touched the tower and cable at the same time, I could be turned to ashes."

From the insulator, Klein eased himself down onto the cable and slid 70 yards on the seat of his pants to another insulator then he jumped to a second tower.

His hands were numbing fast in the 7-degree cold.

Below him, two East German guards patrolled the wire barriers facing West Berlin's Teltow

Clemency Plea By Sheppard Is Denied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Pardon and Parole Commission has voted 4-0 not to recommend any change in the second degree murder sentence of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, former Bay Village osteopath convicted of killing his pregnant wife eight years ago.

The handsome father of one entered the Ohio prison system July 20, 1955. By law, he must serve a minimum of 10 years, less time for good behavior, before he can be considered for parole.

His attorneys petitioned for a clemency hearing, which was held Tuesday, in the hope of convincing commissioners, that Sheppard's medical services and conduct in prison have earned a reduction in sentence to manslaughter or commutation to time already served.

Steel Workers May Not Seek Wage Increase

Profits Decline By Firms May Delay Action By Unions

NEW YORK (AP)—Evidence mounted today that the cost-price squeeze in steel has become acute for the industry leaders.

The situation could have a bearing on whether the United Steel Workers Union picks up an option it can exercise after May 1 to press for higher wages or other benefits.

Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest producer, reported Thursday that 192 earnings had hit a 15-year low. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., ranking fourth, reported a sizable drop in profits from 1961.

The news followed by two days the disclosure that the No. 1 steelmaker, U.S. Steel Corp., had its poorest year for profits since 1952.

At a news conference after Bethlehem reported, Arthur B. Homer, board chairman, was asked about prospects for a reopening of wage negotiations.

"This is no time for any wage or employment cost increase," he replied. "It would be very bad for the economy and the steel industry. I'm hoping there won't be any. However, we don't know."

Agreeing with Roger M. Blough, U.S. Steel chief, Homer said there are indications that the union has a better understanding of industry problems.

Bethlehem said it had cleared $88,677,761, or $1.80 a share, last year, down from $122,357,028, or $2.54 a share, in 1961. The figure was the lowest since the company netted $51.1 million in 1947, and

FDR Jr. Given Commerce Job by JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has selected Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a former campaign lieutenant and son of the late president, to be undersecretary of commerce.

If the Senate confirms the nomination, the 48-year-old Roosevelt will succeed Edward Gudemann, who is returning to private business, in the $21,000-a-year post.

Announcement of Roosevelt's designation Thursday opened two avenues of speculation: That he might eventually succeed Luther H. Hodges as secretary of commerce or that he is being groomed for a Senate nomination from New York in 1964.

Newsman asked Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, if there was any understanding that Roosevelt would move up as secretary should Hodges resign. Salinger said he knew of no such understanding and Hodges issued a statement describing Roosevelt as "a dynamic and gifted person."

Roosevelt was elected to Congress from New York in 1949 and served two terms and part of a third. He makes his home in Washington, where he has a foreign auto agency, but the White House listed the appointment as from the state of New York.

Lisbon to Seek School Funds

Voters to Act On 19-Mill Proposal

LISBON — Lisbon Exempted Village School District residents will find a 16-mill renewal levy and an additional 3-mill operating levy on the May 7 ballots, the board of education announced today after a lengthy special session Tuesday evening at which time the action was deemed necessary.

With school operating costs running in the red the past year to the tune of approximately $31,000, the board will place the renewal and new levy—for a total of 19 mills—on the May ballot although no money would be realized until 1964.

The system actually ended the year with a $42,000 deficit, but some $11,000 will be coming from the state in the form of reimbursement for the purchase last year of two new school buses and Title III money.

Supt. Oliver H. Payne said the Lisbon district started the year with an $11,000 deficit.

The additional 3-mill levy would produce approximately $36,000 each year for five years, 1964-68, and it would appear on the tax duplicates for the years 1963-67.

Supt. Payne pointed out that the debt will increase even to a greater amount this calendar year. Miscalculations at several levels are blamed. It is pointed out further that building fund money derived from the last $350,000 bond issue, cannot be used for operating expenses. Erection of the new addition at McKinley elementary

City Council President Gets JC Award

Joseph Selected As 'Man of Year'

Ford Joseph Jr., manager of the National Dry Cleaners, was presented a distinguished service award as the "Outstanding Young Man of the Year, 1962" at the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Bosses Night dinner Thursday at Timberlakes.

The award came to Joseph on his 30th birthday.

One hundred six Jaycees and their bosses attended the event which featured besides the announcement of Salem's "outstanding young man of the year," an address by Dr. A. M. Paxson of New Wilmington, nationally known educator.

Paxson's talk dealt with the Common Market and problems faced by the United States and Europe because of recent action by France's President Charles de Gaulle.

The educator declared that responsibility in this country for solving problems entailed by the Common Market lies with three main groups: government, management and labor. Paxson said

'Mao vs. the World' Town Hall Topic

Asian Affairs Expert Speaks Here Tuesday

Salem's Town Hall enters the second half of its season next Tuesday night at 8:15 when Australia's Denis Warner, an authority on Asian affairs, will discuss "Mao vs. the World."

Warner is the author of a book, "Hurricane from China," and a contributor to the Atlantic Monthly, The Reporter and other magazines.

The lecture, fourth in a series of six at Salem Junior High School auditorium, is free to the public.

Warner predicts that by 1982 China will have a population of more than a billion. It will rank third among the world's military powers and an easy first in militancy.

He will tell how Mao Tse-tung is using his city-countryside concept of guerrilla war as an instrument of international politics.

"By isolating the Western World in general, and in particular the U.S., Mao plans to consolidate Communism in Africa, Asia and Latin America," the lecturer contends.

Warner will explain what is behind the falling out between China and Soviet Russia. He will give compelling reasons why the rift will not become a critical factor in international relations and will tell what the West can do to counter China.

For his creditable performance as an observer-writer of Far East affairs, Warner was awarded the Nieman Fellowship in 1956-47. The

New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune have lauded him as one of the most knowledgeable correspondents on Southeast

Nuclear Arms Issue Debated In Commons

Officials Declare Criticism Will Not Alter Defense Plan

OTTAWA (AP)—U.S. criticism will not change Canada's defense policies, Defense Minister Douglas Harkness told the House of Commons Thursday night. Opposition parties stepped up their attacks on the government but rallied behind Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker's charge that Washington was butting into Canadian affairs.

An emergency debate in Commons brought no attempt to topple Diefenbaker's Conservative government. But the groundwork clearly was being laid for an election campaign built around the nuclear weapons controversy.

The U.S. State Department raised the controversy to crisis pitch with a charge Wednesday that Canada, by failing to accept American nuclear arms, is dragging its feet in the defense of North America and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The debate took place as speculation mounted that Diefenbaker will dissolve Parliament and call for a general election on the nuclear arms issue. But the prime minister remained silent after accusing the State Department of "unwarranted intrusion" in Canada's affairs.

The emergency debate ended with neither side satisfied. The House was scheduled to return today to routine business.

The controversy was branching off into two phases:

Condemnation by both Diefenbaker's Conservatives and opposition of the State Department for criticizing Canada's defense

OU Professor On Trial for Wife's Murder

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Selection of a jury began today in the first-degree murder trial of former Ohio University professor Gene Isaac Stees, whose wife's battered body was found in a lake last October.

Seventy-five persons were summoned as veniremen for the trial of the 30-year-old Stees, accused of fatally beating his pregnant wife, Helen, 30, with a crowbar. Police say Stees admitted killing his estranged wife, then putting her body in a steel drum and dumping it into nearby Dow Lake last Oct. 20.

Divers recovered the body from the lake Oct. 26 after Stees told them he had dumped the drum there.

At the time of the slaying, authorities said, Mrs. Stees was living with her parents in Ashland. She had planned to meet her husband in Columbus, then go to Athens for an Ohio University football game. She was never seen alive again.

Steas was arrested during the search for his wife and at first denied seeing her. Later, police said, the baldish professor admitted the killing.

Steas was charged at first with cohabitation for allegedly living with another woman who he called his wife at a farm two miles south of New Marshfield.

The "other woman," who was

Study on Exemptions From Property Taxation Urged

"The need by the State of Ohio for detailed study of exemptions from real property taxation" is indicated by a report prepared by the Ohio Public Expenditure Council, a private, non-political organization in Columbus.

Basing its report on State Department of Taxation figures, the council says that in 1961 the assessed valuation of real property totaled $18,576,701,212, and the valuation of real property exempted from taxation was $2,802,445,009.

This means almost 87 per cent of real property was taxable while 13 per cent was exempted.

Comparable figures for Columbiana County show an assessed valuation of real property of $119,103,950 and $11,317,860 valuation of real property exempted from taxation. Therefore, more than 91 per cent of real property was taxable with nearly nine per cent exempted.

Mahoning County's assessed valuation of real property was $581,182,680 with a valuation of real property exempted from taxation of $60,596,650. The ratio of taxable real property to exempted figures about the same as in Columbiana County.

The council listed figures for all 88 counties as shown on the 1961 tax lists and duplicates. These values were used for the 1962 collection of real property taxes.

"The trend of real property exemptions, which is constantly increasing on a state-wide basis," the council says, "has shown a strong effect upon tax revenues used for the support of local government."

"The figures clearly indicate that the rise in taxable real property is not keeping pace with the increase in properties exempted from taxation."

Christian Dior Presents New Designs

Slender Line Silhouette New Trend In Fashions

PARIS (AP) — The House of Christian Dior presented a new slender line silhouette today, with sheaths streamlined from neckline to hemline. Bosoms were flattened throughout.

The sheath dresses often were without belts. Necklines were built up for daytime, close to the throat. There were shirred halters for evening.

Designer Marc Bohan featured kimono sleeves, with the armholes down to the waist and draped. This sleeve style appeared in every type of dress, on jackets and on coats.

The simplicity of the line was relieved by rich fabrics with texture interest.

In suits, jackets never close. They show a starched linen bib, blouse or T-shirt, always left plain. Detailing includes buttoned tabs, particularly in a group of clothes designed especially for U.S. and Mexican wear.

A third of the evening dresses were richly beaded or studded with rhinestones.

Bohan was given an ovation for his new tapered silhouette.

The collection opened with springtime, a black and white check tweed suit with a slender open jacket fitting snugly through the figure and leaving a wide space for the starched linen modesty bib.

The sleeves at the shoulders of all suits are slightly puffed, skirts are slim, or in younger suits kilted or deeply pleated.

Soon afterward came Bohan's second idea—the armhole cut down to the waist and a wide kimono sleeve folding back on itself at varied lengths. This first steps forth in a blue-jacketed suit with a red top, then appears in a gray wool two-piece for Paris. Next it came in an all-red two-piece mid-dy suit and finally in black for cocktails.

Next in importance came the great number of tapered dresses. They are actually snug-fitted chemise dresses with subtle hemline interest as a tiny bubble puff in the back, which is developed in some evening sheaths to a large puff.

Necks are close to the throat while for evening the shirred halter neck is favored, occasionally developing into a full swatched scarf or stole line.

The tapered slender silhouette has a subtitle: Dior calls them "cylinder dresses," for they are tubular. They are shown in tailored wool, new silk and wool and orlon weaves, new staron mixtures and anything that has body, including shantung. These sheaths are often completed by short square jackets with wide-open revers, occasional rolled collars and occasional squared-off revers.

Kastner, McKenzie Honored By Lisbon Junior Chamber

LISBON — Thomas G. Kastner of 725 Sunset Drive, an employee of the Summitville Brick Company's engineering department, and Charles McKenzie, Lisbon RD 5, manager of Farmers National Bank, won the junior and senior awards, respectively, at the Junior Chamber of Commerce bosses night dinner at the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening.

Kastner is president of the Lisbon Jaycees.

The event, for which Dean Rose was master of ceremonies, marked Junior Chamber of Commerce Week.

Forty persons were present and enjoyed the dinner served by women of the Eastern Star.

Certificates of appreciation went to William Morgan Jr., the Evening Journal and Raymond Stiver of Salem, maintenance supervisor of Ohio Bell Telephone Company who showed a film "Seconds For Survival."

Smokers In Iceland Raising Funds For Cancer Research

NEW YORK (AP)—In Iceland, cigarette smokers are raising a treasury for cancer education and research.

A special tax of half a cent per pack has been levied, the money to go to the Icelandic Cancer Society. The society expects to reap about $50,000 a year, all above its current annual income of $10,000 to $20,000, says Dr. Niels Dungal, society president.

Part of the money raised when smokers smoke will go into a campaign to urge people, especially teen-agers, not to smoke. If this succeeds, the revenue from the cigarette tax will go down.

Iceland apparently is the first country to earmark a tax on cigarettes for such purposes, Dungal said in an interview during a visit to the United States. The tax took effect Jan. 1.

The society hopes to give regular smear tests for early detection of cancer of the cervix to all women aged 25 to 60 and to seek causes of stomach cancer.

Dungal, professor of pathology at the University of Iceland, is among those who blame cigarette smoking as a cause of lung cancer, a position challenged by some others, including the tobacco industry.

"Thirty years ago Icelanders smoked less than any nation in Europe and had practically no lung cancer," he said. "The cigarette imports were limited to one pound of tobacco (about 450 cigarettes) per person per year and have risen to 3½ pounds (1,575 cigarettes) per person. Some do not smoke at all while others smoke one to two packages a day, and a few even more."

Lung cancer has increased to about 10 to 15 cases per year, compared with one case a year 30 years ago, Dr. Dungal said.

Strikes Against Public Interest

Before the striking longshoremen had been persuaded to go back to work on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts by a government-forced settlement that shippers regarded as grossly unfair, President Kennedy had lost the edges off his Irish temper.

He had learned to his dismay what another Democratic president learned to his dismay beginning 30 years ago. Franklin D. Roosevelt was confident that he could handle case-hardened labor leaders like William Green, John Lewis, Phil Murray, Dave Beck, Bill Hutchison and the rest of the leading lights of the labor movement. John F. Kennedy, who also has led a sheltered life, is discovering a similar truth about the men who run unions. They are not interested in playing his game. It isn't the same game they're playing.

IT IS THE same truth he said he learned last spring about the men who run big business enterprises. His father, he said, had been right in characterizing steelworkers by an unprintable name.

It may be significant, though, that the young President did not hesitate to use his name when talking about a handful of industrial leaders but has never used it when talking about labor leaders. They are his political supporters.

Sooner or later, however, he too will be driven beyond the limits of his patience and will curse "both houses," as President Roosevelt once did. Or he will be driven to distraction, as Harry Truman was, and try to break a deadlock by seizing an industry to stay on the good side of union leaders.

It is unlikely he will follow Dwight Eisenhower's hands-off policy, which meant bringing the country to the edge of ruin in the senseless steel shutdown of 1959 and handing candidate Kennedy the sad industrial statistics with which he belabored Republican in his successful campaign in 1960.

MR. KENNEDY is due for a rough ride at the hands of rough-riding unionists who squeezed him into office in 1960. They will have no more compassion for him than they had for his two Democratic predecessors in our era of unlimited collective bargaining.

As the unionists interpret it, collective bargaining is the right to bring the country to its knees. They have as much right to strike against the President, as protector of the national interest, as to strike against an industry, their employers and even their own associates. They do all these things with a clear conscience.

There are no limits on their rights. There are no restraints, moral, legal, economic, or otherwise. The right to bargain collectively is the right to destroy collectively if they choose to do so. Only one thing can restrain them — direct federal intervention and a direct order to cease and desist.

THIS IS NOT what collective bargaining was intended to be.

This is collective coercion — and sooner or later it is going to hotten up the Irish temper of the latest chief executive who has fallen heir to an intolerable situation.

There are civil rights in America every bit as important as the ones being protected in the South — and one is the right not to be hamstrung by blood-letting strikes against the public interest.

$1.2 Billion for a Thumb

There are 24 points covering 13 new programs and 11 existing programs in the 1963 version of federal aid to education submitted to Congress for consideration.

All senators and representatives will be tempted by this opportunity to shower down federal funds on local communities. President Kennedy says the 1963 version of Big Brotherliness in the classroom would cost $1.2 billion just to get things under way.

Thereafter, the cost would go up year by year.

As it went up, the local cost of operating schools would diminish. The pain of paying for schools would be made pleasantly remote by moving the cost gradually to Washington.

The YW Activities

The Hawaiian luau held at the YWCA Wednesday lent warmth and color to the start of another diversified winter program of the Young Women's Christian Association here.

The Salem YW, although not established in Salem until the fall of 1956, has become a focal point for many community activities the year 'round. A diversity of educational and entertaining programs are offered for the enjoyment of young and old alike, and both men and women.

The 1963 winter program, now just beginning, offers such pleasurable pastimes as bridge, golf instruction, chess and dancing and, in the handicraft category, such things as sewing, needlework, cake decorating, home nursing and interior decorating, to mention a few. The fees are so nominal and the opportunity so challenging that it's hard to believe that more persons don't take advantage of what the YW has to offer.

Liberated!

It's always interesting to read think-pieces about what's in store for white collar workers.

You get to thinking about what you do and wondering how it would be handled by automation. Anything is possible. They have computers that compose poetry, which is more than most typewriter jockeys in newspaper offices can do.

I discovered automation at the white collar level before it was taken to heart by cost-cutters in business offices. As time goes on, I become proud of this mental breakthrough because I came to grips with the principle of electronic computers before these gadgets came on the scene.

My thought was that mechanical means could be substituted for many laborious thought processes that took place in management; that automatic decisions could be made quicker and slicker than personal decisions.

This was based on the observable fact that the bulk of on-the-spot decisions made by management are of the yes-no-maybe type. The decision-maker has a 50-50 chance to be right if he chooses at random.

Yet because of a multitude of distracting influences he may not give himself this chance to be right half the time, because he weighs pros and cons with inadequate scales. This cuts his probable percentage. Other distracting factors enter into it — bad digestion, disorderly private life, pains in the head, trouble with the golf swing, distractions, hangovers, personal dislikes, nepotism, extraneous pressures, politicking, social climbing and plain failure to know what he's doing.

It had become plain to me that an ordinary slot machine rigged to come up YES, NO or MAYBE would be a satisfactory substitute for that highest echelon of white-collar workers—decision-makers.

Automatic decisions would be the equal of the fouled-up decisions available from the ordinary run of management. The machines needed to make them could be amortized over a long period of years, written off, juggled and juggled in a way that would be out of the question for the executives they replaced.

Moreover—and this was to have been the payoff—the idea would cool off the enthusiasm of top management for pell-mell mechanization, which was the problem before automation began to loom large. It was mechanization when geniuses figured out how to turn up the heat by pulling a handle. It is automation when they figure out how to sell a sucker a $150 whingus to pull the handle when the temperature sinks below 72.

My converted slot machine would have been mechanization. It would be automation if anyone on the premises could make the slot machine produce a YES, NO or MAYBE by pushing a button beneath the ledge on his desk.

Don't laugh, schoolmates. They're already making policy in Washington with computers. Everywhere you look, wherever you listen, little wheels are spinning and little gears are whining, simulating what we once liked to think went on in our brain boxes when we made decisions.

They're starting low on the ladder to kick fashioned human decision-making m m mm off the human element. But eventually they will go to the top. And when it happens, the climactic decision to get rid of the old fashioned human decision-makers at the top will be made by an electronic computer—one that a computer jockey forgot to turn off before he left the premises to check in at the nearest unemployment compensation office because he had been liberated from further earning power that very day by a computer he never even saw.

Cut In Stamp Prices Might Reduce Postal Deficit

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Maybe the government should practice what it preaches. A tax cut has been heralded as a means of stimulating the volume of business done, which could mean more treasury receipts.

If this is so, maybe the government should try out the same doctrine in the Post Office Department, which is one of the largest single businesses in the world. Thus, the special delivery stamp, which now is 30 cents, could be reduced in a three-phase program that would bring the price down first to 20 cents and then to 15 and then to 10 cents.

It could make money for the government and help reduce the deficit. Any suggestions to help overcome deficits should be especially welcome nowadays.

Back in 1953, when the special delivery fee was 20 cents, there were 114 million of these stamps sold that year, but the 1962 sale was a little less than 92 million.

In 1957, the special delivery stamp was hiked from 20 cents to 30 cents, and the volume started downward for 1958. The total sales figure since has never approached what it was in the years between 1953 and 1957.

The revenues, moreover, have fluctuated. They were $36 million in 1962 as against $35 million in 1958—a gain of only $1 million in four years.

THIS IS an example of how sudden and steep price increases have hurt the business volume in one kind of mail.

Price making has often been said to be the biggest single factor in the success of a business which sells a product to a large number of customers. It will be recalled that the U.S. Steel Corporation executives in April 1962 wanted to increase prices by only three-tenths of a cent a pound—the first price increase in three years, during which their wage costs had gone up each year—but President Kennedy called this price change inflationary and frowned on the plan.

The secret of price making is gradualness and a careful appraisal of "what the traffic will bear."

The Post Office Department has not stimulated the use of special delivery. Now that it costs 30 cents, plus a 5-cent ordinary stamp, or a total of 35 cents, the long-distance telephone as well as the telegram in many instances become competitors. Both have the advantage of faster communication and immediate reply.

The Post Office Department needs revenue and, being analogous to private business so far as communication economics is concerned, it must offer the customer quick service at a low price. Also, the special delivery service is not as good as it used to be. Post Offices in many cities and towns have reduced personnel, especially on weekends.

IN MANY country districts, there is no special delivery service on Saturdays and Sundays, and, though the customer pays 35 cents to get special delivery, he will find that his letter is delivered on Monday along with the regular mail.

Likewise, in some suburban areas, the Post Office doesn't provide any special delivery service at all, but sometimes notifies the addressee by telephone and the prospective recipient can make a trip of 15 or 20 miles to the post office to get such mail, at a cost of more than 30 cents in gasoline.

Few people know where the hundreds of post offices that are closed down altogether on Sundays are located. In any fairness, these should be widely publicized because, after all, the Post Office Department doesn't come under the Federal Trade Commission and can't be hauled up like a private business for misrepresenting its delivery service.

The Post Office Department could increase its revenues substantially if it reduced its special delivery rates on a three-year program more people would be tempted to affix a special delivery stamp if it were only 20 cents—and maybe some day it could be 10 cents again.

As population grows and postal business increases, there are more and more stamp-cancelling machines being developed to handle a larger and larger volume of mail more quickly and at a lower cost.

So the natural thing is to revise the price structure and get the benefit of a larger volume. That's what the administration's economists are preaching for American business generally, and this philosophy is reflected in President Kennedy's recent messages to congress.

From 1947 to 1957, the total volume of mail handled by the Post Office Department increased at an average annual rate of 4.7 per cent. From 1957 to 1962, the mail volume grew at only 2.4 per cent, or about half of the previous 10-year growth rate. This is what is called "chronic sluggishness."

THE PRESIDENT'S budget message estimates that, for the coming fiscal year, the Post Office Department will take in $4.5 billion and will spend $565 million more.

To overcome this deficit, the Kennedy administration doctrine calls for a stimulus, which means some way of increasing the gross national postal product. Maybe the thing to do is to reduce the tax—or postage—on letter mail so that the 5-cent rate would gradually come down to 2 cents again.

The deficits, it might be said, would be "down payments on future surpluses." Theoretically it should work out to the government's benefit, as more people would write letters. Certainly many businesses would be tempted to do more selling by mail with first class postage.

But if one may be pardoned a tongue-in-cheek observation, the government doesn't have to follow business principles, since it has an owner with apparently unlimited resources with which to pay deficits.

Dangerous Strikes Over Trifles

By VICTOR RIESEL

While everybody has been covering the waterfront, other costly strikes have been whipsawing nuclear and space testing bases and installations. Once again national leaders here have been helpless.

Once again regional labor chiefs have calmly given the signal for walkouts which have stalled operations on underground tests, on the most secretive AEC drilling and tunneling, and even on the painstaking building of launch pads for space rendezvousing, moon landing, moon circling and some mysterious unmentionables in interplanetary operations.

You would think that the decision to trigger such walkouts would come only after conflict on the most monumental of issues. Judge for yourselves.

The other day the Millwrights Local 1510 struck at Cape Canaveral. They demanded, in effect, the right to have their own people build the pedestal arms on which rest the giant space missiles.

THESE WERE being constructed by specialists employed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). They are civil service people.

Leaders of the Millwrights union do not want the NASA construction men on the job. But NASA insists. NASA directors make it clear they want no jurisdiction over what is rightfully union work. But, says NASA, it wants to have its own complete unit.

Thus, if at the final moment of blast-off of men into space, a sudden rectification is needed, if some emergency springs up as an astronaut rests on his cradle-chair, NASA scientists can tell their own unit what to do immediately — and they will all be right on the spot to do it.

But the union said no. And it struck. A government agency sought an injunction. When Federal Judge William J. Barker granted it, temporarily halting the strike, he said:

"The strike had seriously interrupted completion of launching pads for use in the nation's space flight program."

Involved were — 12 jobs.

FOR THIS the Millwrights union struck instead of talking it out, no matter how long it took. All that NASA wants is the right to use a dozen of its own technicians when some astronaut — or several of them — are about to be hurled into the sky.

Also overlooked by the nation was a stoppage at the Michoud

Operations, 15 miles from the center of New Orleans.

In this complex will be built the gargantuan million-and-a-half-pound thrust Saturn S-1 booster. Also the advance Saturn booster — 7½ million pounds thrust rocket vehicle — which will carry the three-man Apollo spacecraft on circumlunar missions. It will be used, too, for manned lunar landing missions, effecting a rendezvous technique.

Michoud is being revamped. Electrical workers were inserting garden-variety wiring in the ceiling of a building. The construction company wanted them to use a lift mechanism to get to the ceiling.

The local union demanded the erection of scaffolding. This would have been expensive. So 90 electrical workers struck. More delays, more costs.

THESE ARE the simple walkouts. There are the nightmarish complexities of the Nevada Test Site which has been hit with a series of stoppages and disputes. Involved are wage systems, travel time, daily subsistence pay, hazard time money Saturday and Sunday shifts home to check-in point travel time, check-in to forward point time — all so complex that no one really has a complete view of the costs.

Today one of the most knowledgeable of federal test and space experts told me that the cost of merely subsistence and travel time is somewhere between $10-20 million a year.

This test site is a vast area on which are many interlocked projects — Mercury testing, classified drilling, tunneling, and now something new called the Nuclear Rocket Development Station Area 400.

On the entire range there are some 3,500 construction workers and some 400 white-collar people. After the Mercury check-in point, they may have to drive 40 or 50 miles to their work site.

Since many live anywhere from 75 to 150 miles from the check-in building, they get subsistence pay and then travel time for driving inside.

RECENTLY the Atomic Energy Commission decided to cut these back and transportation costs too. Some men were getting $8 a day. This was trimmed to $7.50. White collar workers were cut from $7.50 to $5. The electrical workers struck, the carpenters struck, the white-collar workers struck.

Some of the resentment is justified. Some not. But it is certain that there must not be strikes at the Cape Canaveral and Nevada Test sites of the land.

The answer, it seems to me, is to have some national authority declare right now that certain areas of our national life, economy and science, are in the public interest.

And thence in these areas there must be tranquility and stability. Talk it out. Nnot fight it out.

Se up labor courts if necessary. But the public interest must be served. It is now a matter of survival — strikes as usual in these areas must become a forgotten luxury.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend was over last night and we were sitting on the sofa watching TV. He accidentally brushed my head with his arm and my earring fell off. It rolled under the piano which was a few feet away.

I asked him to please move the piano and get my earring. He said, "It's less dangerous, physically, for a woman to move a piano than for a man." He refused to budge.

For your information, Ann, he is a 180-pound construction worker and I happen to know he handles a sledgehammer that weighs almost as much as our piano. I told him I didn't think his attitude was very gentlemanly. He claims any doctor will tell you that women have stronger constitutions than men and they live longer. He said I should move the piano myself.

What do you have to say about this, Ann Landers?—MYRTLE.

Dear Myrtle: Have you ever seen a lady piano mover?

Reluctant Sailor

Dear Ann: I'm in the Navy, aboard a carrier. I've never asked for advice through the mails before and I'm surprised that I'm doing it now, but I need help.

My girl is driving me crazy. She wants to get married when I get my next shore leave. I'm 21 and have one year and eight months of service ahead of me. I want to wait until I can assume the financial responsibilities of a husband.

The girl's parents are in favor of a wedding now. They say the separations wouldn't be so hard on her if we were married. I say they'd be worse. My parents think I should wait but they are willing to go along with anything I decide.

I love this girl and I don't want to lose her. Her last letter said, "Now or never." Help me, please.—NO COMPASS.

Dear No Compass: Stick to the girl really loves you she'll wait. If she doesn't want to wait then you haven't lost a great deal.

Your reason is mature and sound. Hers is juvenile.

Sacrificial Wife

Dear Ann: We were married in 1933. Times were tough and we had to watch every penny. We weathered the storm, had four nice children and things got better. Then the war came and my husband's business boomed.

Three of our children are through college and doing nicely. Our youngest son will be graduated in June. My husband refuses to build me a nice home or even spend the money necessary to remodel this one. He says he wants to leave our children well fixed when he dies and that he and I don't "need anything."

I feel I've earned a few comforts and that he shouldn't be so concerned with leaving a large inheritance. We both want your thinking on this. He says you are a practical woman and will side with him.—PLENTY TIRED.

Dear Tired: The poor guy has clenched his fist so long he's unable to relax and enjoy the fruits of his labors.

I say you have earned a new house. And if you want one he should be happy to buy you one. As for leaving the children a large inheritance, the finest legacy a father can leave his children is independence and the initiative to make it on their own.

Day Dreamer

Dear Ann: I'm a wife and mother, married 10 years and approaching 34. Maybe if I see this letter in print the pure disgust of it will cure me.

I've been day dreaming about a former sweetheart whom I have not seen in 11 years. The day dreaming started about six months ago when I heard "our" song on the radio. I just sat there like a ninny and all the warm memories washed over me like a glorious wave. Now I can't seem to get the guy out of my mind.

The old boy friend was a heel. Morally he isn't fit to shine my husband's shoes and nobody knows this better than I do. How can I shake this shameful, adolescent habit?—LOOSE BOLT.

Dear Bolt: The one who got away always looks better. In fact they look better "away" than they ever did when they were there.

When you feel a day dream coming on, substitute in its place one of those heeish incidents which persuaded you to marry someone else.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Questions And Answers

Q—I am a woman of 35. On several occasions I have spit up a small amount of blood, although I seldom have a cold. My chest X-ray was reported as showing slight scar ring in the lungs and I was told to have an X-ray every six months. Is there any cause for alarm?

A — You should see your Dr. Brandstadt doctor without delay. He can test your sputum chemically for amounts of blood too small to be seen. The blood could be coming from your gums, nose or lungs. In any case, the source should be determined so that appropriate treatment can be given.

Q—If you are allergic to ink, what are the symptoms? I use a stamp pad six days a week.

A—The usual symptoms would be redness and itching of the skin at the point of contact. In order to prove a cause-and-effect relationship, your doctor should make a patch test.

Many years ago I saw a patient who had a most baffling condition. Every Monday he developed an acute eczema of both hands, with severe itching and a watery discharge from the affected skin. This would clear up by Friday, only to reappear the next Monday. A skin specialist studied this man and made many patch tests, but could not discover the cause. Finally, he went to the man's home early one Sunday morning and stayed with him all day, taking note of anything the man did on Sunday that he did not do on other days.

In a sudden flash of genius he hit upon the rotogravure section, which was a new and very popular feature of the Sunday papers. A patch test was made and the case and which used a special ink. A patch test was made and the case was solved.

Q—How can a person tell whether he has a brain tumor?

A—The manifestations of a brain tumor are extremely varied. They depend on the exact location of the tumor, and how fast it is growing. Most of them cause severe, unrelieved headache. However, if a person wants to know whether his headache is due to a brain tumor, he should see his doctor.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Cultural Ignoramus

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you sometimes feel like a cultural ignoramus because you prefer a musical comedy tune to many an operatic aria?

Well, be of good cheer. In the opinion of Earl Wrightson, one of America's top baritone voices may be showing superior judgment.

"I don't believe in high, middle or lowbrow music," he said. "There's just good or bad music. There's good and bad opera, good and bad musical comedy, good and bad jazz."

"Opera is the national musical sport of Italy. Those who have been waiting for American opera to develop have overlooked the fact it is already here under their noses—in theater musical drama such as 'Carousel.' 'South Pacific.' 'My Fair Lady.' 'Kiss Me Kate,' and a dozen others. 'They happen to be our musical art form, and it's a great one. 'The only beef I have against opera buffs is that they tend to look down on Broadway music which is often better than some traditional operas that really are only a form of yelling.'"

Wrightson's attitude is hardly a case of sour grapes. The big, bearded singer sang opera earlier in his career and in 1946 was offered a $150 a week contract by the Metropolitan Opera Co. He turned it down, he says, for temperamental as well as financial reasons.

"You really have to be tremendously dedicated to a single goal to sing opera," he explained. "You have to work, work, work, study, study, study. Sometimes you wait for weeks to be called for a role."

"By that time I had learned to enjoy diversity more."

One of the busiest performers in his field, Wrightson has a hard time filling his schedule of television appearances, night club dates, summer shows, and concert engagements.

Earl, the son of a Methodist minister, quit a Baltimore high school to enter a conservatory after playing hooky 60 times in his junior year.

Wrightson worked for a time as a $15-a-week NBC page boy, along with other such future stars as Gregory Peck, Gordon MacRae and Bert Parks. The same network paid him $3,200 a week.

A jovial, zesty man, Earl says the life of a professional singer isn't all a matter of how to hit the right musical notes and where to invest the bank notes.

"It interferes terribly with your social life," he said. "You have to stay in training. You sing on vitality. Because singing draws so terribly on your energy, you have to store it up. You simply have to get your rest, no matter how much you may want to make the rounds of the town."

Travelers Club Is Host to Book, Music Study Groups

Travelers Club members were hostesses to members of the Book Club and Music Study Club at the Ruth Smucker House Tuesday.

Mrs. David Cope, president of Travelers Club, welcomed the 60 guests and presented Mrs. Z. R. Taylor, vice president of the Book Club who substituted for Mrs. J. H. England, president, and Mrs. A. W. Kilman, president of the Music Study Club.

Mrs. J. C. Pottorf gave the opening prayer. A review of the book, "The Vices of Glory" by Davis Grubb, about 30 characters of a small West Virginia town who tell their stories and a public health nurse who defies the town's busybodies, was given by Mrs. Bryce Kendall.

A musical program included solos by Clyde Miller, who sang "Money-O" (Head) and "Passing By" (Purcell) accompanied by Lois Whinnery and Gary Hasson, who sang "Be Thou Faithful Until Death" (Mendelssohn) and "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings, O Lord" (Liddle) accompanied by Sue Schmidt.

Tea was served from a table laid in lace and centered with a spring arrangement of yellow jonquils and purple iris. Silver candelabra with yellow candles completed the decorations. Presiding at the tea service were Mrs. Kilman and Mrs. Taylor.

The tea committee was comprised of Mrs. Arthur Vaughn, chairman, Mrs. George W. Bunn, Mrs. R. B. Long, Sr., Mrs. G. W. Smith, Mrs. R. R. Woods, Mrs. Orville Hoover, Miss Hilda Franke, Miss Helen Derfus and Mrs. C. F. Tomlinson.

Music Study Club and Travelers Club will each meet Feb. 12 and Book Club will meet Monday.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: Did you ever run out of cocoa and have no chocolate for your children's milk? Use chocolate pudding! Add two teaspoons in a glass and then add your milk. It's delicious.

A READER.

DEAR FOLKS: It just so happens that this afternoon we were out of cocoa. I did open a box of chocolate pudding — nt the instant type.

I put the pudding in the bottom of a glass, added a dash of water and stirred it into a thick paste. Then I felled the glass with milk. My daughter thinks it's absolutely grand.

This is wonderful hot, too. Just heat your milk and pour a dab of it into the bottom of the cup first, stir into a thick paste, and finish filling up the cup with the hot milk.

This mother is a doll!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: As the result of losing a needle which I had stuck in the hole of a spool of thread, I took an inch of cellophane tape and stuck it over the hole of the spool. Then I stuck the needle through the tape. It's always there! The stickiness of the tape holds the needle in place.

JOHN MADISON.

DEAR HELOISE: If you need a nice durable, easy to clean non-slip tablecloth — try plastic upholstery. Sure is wonderful.

This upholstery comes in 64-inch widths and you can purchase whatever length you wish. It comes in pretty patterns, too. It's especially good when there are little children around the house, for there always seems to be at least one spill at every meal. Sure easy to wipe off with a sponge.

Reilly School PTA Hears Talk on Taxes by Atty. Coe

Attorney Thomas Coe was guest speaker when members of Reilly School Parent Teachers Association met Tuesday evening in the school. The topic of his talk was "Your Real Estate Taxes."

Mr. Coe related that $27 of the $36.80 per thousand dollars of property evaluation paid in taxes, is received by the school system in the city. The rest is divided among the state, county, township and city.

He suggested that a committee might be formed from representatives of each unit receiving money from taxes, to meet and discuss what levies are to be asked for by each group. In this way the public could be better informed on the levies most important and attention focused on the ones most needed. As it now stands, each group works alone and each feels that its need is greatest. But the tax-weary public is going to defeat some issues, at forthcoming elections, and being uninformed, may defeat those most necessary, he said.

Mr. Coe said, "It is up to the general public to talk with officials concerned or write letters to the editor of the local newspaper so that we might realize better use of our tax dollars."

Richard Cobourn presided at the business session when the proposed acquisition of the old post office building by the board of education was discussed, as well as other matters pertaining to the operation of the school.

Those in attendance decided it was the civic responsibility of the PTA to make a concentrated study of the school situation and become better informed. A motion was made to invite Superintendent Paul Smith or Assistant Superintendent Darrell Fadely to attend a Reilly School PTA meeting.

ing in the near future when open discussion will be held.

Refreshments were served by mothers of third grade students.

The next association meeting will be Feb. 26 in the school. Members are urged to attend the Founder's Day program Feb. 28 at the Junior High School Auditorium when Willey Ley will speak on the topic, "Conquest of Space." This program is sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association in cooperation with the Town Hall series.

Nicklaus Grabs Lead In Palm Springs Golf Classic

Shave, Player Back 1 Stroke Palmer Is 8 Behind; Kneecoe Falls To 3rd

By JIM BACON
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player, with hot putters, were one-two today as the $50,000 Palm Springs golf classic went into its third round.

Arnold Palmer, the other member of golf's big three, was eight strokes behind and feeling mighty low about the whole thing.

Nicklaus, at 23 the youngest National Open champion since Bobby Jones, fashioned seven birdies—five of them on the back nine—for a 35-31 on the tough Tamarisk course, one of four layouts in the 90-hole event. Thursday's 66 paired with an opening 69, made him the solo leader at 135.

Player with a 67-69 was one strike behind as was young Bob Shave Jr., Willoughby, Ohio, who had identical two-day cards. Both played Tamarisk.

Palmer, still playing well off the tee but scrambling on the greens, shot a par 72 at Tamarisk. That with his opening 71 put him in a horde of 143 shooters.

"My putting is awful, just awful," moaned Palmer, a two-time winner of the classic.

Harold Kneecoe, first round co-leader, shot a 71 Thursday to go with his 66 opener to tie for third with 137. Johnny Pott (67-68) and Tommy Aaron (68-69) were in the same bracket.

There were no near misses reported for the $50,000-added prize for a hole-in-one, which must be made over four selected holes, the shortest of which is 217 yards.

The Celtics rallied in the final minutes and edged the Cincinnati Royals 128-125 Thursday night while the Lakers also came from behind and turned back the Detroit Pistons 127-122.

The victories were the sixth straight for both Boston and Los Angeles. The Celtics lead the Eastern Division by 8 games and the Lakers hold a nine-game bulge in the West.

In other games Thursday night, the Chicago Zephyrs posted their first victory ever on the Syracuse court in whipping the New York Knicks 116-101. The Nats edged the St. Louis Hawks 112-110 in the windup of a doubleheader.

Lake Erie, Sandusky Bay Spots Provide Ice Fishing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Thick ice and extremely low temperatures are taking the pressure off the state's ice fishing operations with one exception—the Lake Erie area where some good catches are being made.

Perch are being taken throughout the Lake Erie and Sandusky Bay spots, with some big ones being caught in Put-in-Bay. Crappies are biting at Battery Park, Sandusky.

Good ice conditions are reported elsewhere in the state with some of the harder fishermen reporting success.

Estimate 1,540 Beavers
The Ohio Division of Wildlife says completion of a statewide survey discloses that there are an estimated 1,540 beavers in Ohio.

The beaver population is up 40 per cent over last year's estimated 1,100 despite a trappers' catch of 210 during the two-week trapping season in February 1962.

Counties having the most beavers were listed as Columbiana, Ashtabula, Mahoning, Carroll, Morgan, Williams, Vinton, Trumbull, Jackson, Geauga, Jefferson and Portage.

One additional Ohio hunter—the ninth—has qualified for Buckeye Big Buck Club. He is Joseph Cilluffo of Parma. He placed seventh in the typical class with a 141½ point head which was measured in December but not submitted until after Jan. 1, deadline for measurements.

Get More Quail First 2 Weeks
More quail were taken during the first two weeks of the recent hunting season than were shot in five weeks last year on the Pleasant Valley Wildlife Area in Ross County, reports Virgil Scott, district game management supervisor. A total of 1,540 hunters from 32 Ohio counties, Kentucky and West Virginia went out the first two weeks and shot 229 pheasants (released birds), 176 rabbits, 56 quail, 6 native pheasants and 1 ruffed grouse.

Don Bright, Defiance angler, has found good luck in ice fishing at Oxbow Lake. One of his recent catches was a 20-inch largemouth bass weighing 5¼ pounds. A previous Oxbow catch was a 21-inch northern pike.

STILL IN A HUFF OVER FOOTBALL TITLE GAME — Sam Huff, right, New York Giants veteran linebacker, chats with his coach, Allie Sherman, in New York at a sports award luncheon they attended as guests. The bone-rattling personal feud between Huff and Green Bay Packers fullback Jim Taylor which marked the National Football League title game last December, won by the Packers, 16-7, continues to boil in a battle of words. Huff says the hard-fought game brought a cascade of letters from fans accusing him of rough tactics.

PA's surprised highly-ranked Post Office by winning one of three games in the Volleyball League at the Memorial Building Wednesday.

In other loop action Jacobites defeated Bellows Valvair 2-1 and Electric Furnace Office was awarded a 3-0 forfeit over Firestone Electric.

Post Office chalked up 15-2 and 15-9 decisions in the first two frays, but PA's retaliated to take the third decision by a 15-11 score.

Bellows Valvair defeated Jacobites 15-10 in the initial encounter, but then fell 15-3 and 15-7.

Cincy Trims Drake In Overtime

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Drake, loser of eight games so far this season, came within one lone free throw of pulling the upset of the college basketball season Thursday night in a superlative effort against unbeaten Cincinnati.

But when it was all over, the mighty Bearcats had escaped with a 65-60 overtime triumph, keeping their 34-game winning string intact and retaining a strong hold on their first in the nation rating.

Loyola of Chicago and Niagara, the only other major unbeaten teams in the country, had much less trouble in stretching their strings. Loyola, ranked second in the nation, crushed Washington of St. Louis 118-58 for its 19 straight, and Niagara beat Georgetown, of Washington, D.C., 89-75 for its 10th straight.

Wake Forest Triumphs 54-45
Wake Forest beat South Carolina 54-45 in a key Atlantic Coast Conference game, Kentucky held off Georgia 74-67, and in a Madison Square Garden doubleheader Bowling Green defeated St. John's, N.Y., 63-55 and Providence ripped Dayton 84-72.

Cincinnati's scare against Drake was the Bearcats' toughest game of the season. Their previous closest games this season were a six-point triumph over Bradley and a seven-point edge over Dayton.

Bearcats Trail Until 2:17
The Bearcats, winners of 16 straight this season, trailed much of the way and came from behind to tie it 58-58 on two free throws by Tom Thacker with 2:17 left in regulation time. There was no further scoring until the overtime.

The lead changed hands 11 times before Thacker's two free throws tied it for the last time. He missed a free throw that could have won it with 5 seconds left, and also was wide on a following shot.

George Wilson hit the first five of Cincinnati's seven points in the extra session to nail it down.

A spectator collapsed of apparent heart failure during the final minute of the game and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Gene West of Drake led all scores with 21 points, while Wilson had 20 for the winners, now 5-0 in the Missouri Valley Conference League. Drake is 1-4 in league play.

In other major action, Rutgers broke a five-game losing string with a 90-83 victory over Lafayette, St. Louis beat Marquette 73-62, Utah State coasted to a 97-69 triumph over Utah, and Tulsa fought off Arkansas 68-66.

In the Madison Square Garden doubleheader, Bowling Green leaped to a 23-10 lead and was never headed. But Dayton, which had a halftime lead of 13 points, was blasted with a 19-point run by the Rhode Islanders at the start of the second half.

Two other Ohio teams traveled out of state Thursday night and brought home victories.

Oberlin defeated Allegheny 68-62 at Meadville for its third victory in 12 games. In Wheeling, W. Va., Steubenville took an 8-0 start and went on to beat Wheeling College 69-51. It was Steubenville's 12th win and the West Virginians' 11th loss.

In Gambier, Kenyon took an Ohio Conference game from Marietta 86-65 for its second league win in nine games. The Lords' overall record is 4-8. Marietta is 7-10 in the conference and 9-12 for the season.

Akron defeated Hiram 78-57 in another Ohio Conference game in the Rubber City. The Zips are No. among the small college basketball teams in the nation and now have a 10-1 conference, 15-1 overall record. Hiram is 10-3 for the season, 7-3 in conference play.

Groups Already Planning "Day at the Races"

Waterford Park Party Days Are Popular With Race Fans

Party Days at the races is proving highly popular with racing fans of the area as many groups, organizations and clubs are already planning a "Day at the Races" at Waterford Park during the coming meeting that opens on March 16.

Harry Wright special representative of the public relations department, is busily engaged in contacting and talking with various groups who wish to have their Party Day at Waterford Park. Many of them plan caravans but most are chartering buses for a carefree excursion to the races for their own Party Day.

Last year there were upwards of 150 groups who had their party at Waterford Park for a delightful day at the races. These included such organizations as the Eagles, Elks, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legions, Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Masons, Cities, Radio Stations, Television Stations, Newspapers, and many other fraternal civic and social groups. The largest single society to have their day at the races was the Frogs Club of Pittsburgh which numbered over 300.

Highlight of the festive occasion is naming of the feature race in honor of the group with a presentation being made in the winners circle by the heads of the party. Photographs are taken by the track photographer and forwarded to the group free of charge.

Waterford Park offers several types of parties for large or small groups, such as buffet, luncheon or dinner and refreshments. Also included are reserved seats and free admissions to the grandstand and club house for the entire assemblage of the organization.

The public relations department at Waterford Park is always ready to answer any inquiries regarding a Party Day by mail, phone or in person.

Waterford Park opens the longest racing season in America on March 16, continuing through Labor Day, Sept. 2, for 138 consecutive days of thoroughbred racing. Post time is set at one p.m. daily from March 16 through June 29, then two p.m. daily for the remainder of the meeting.

Hull Scores 3 Goals In Hawks' 9-2 Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's Bobby Hull, though slowed by a charley horse, scored three goals and two assists in a 9-2 National Hockey League victory by the first-place Black Hawks over the last-place Boston Bruins Thursday night.

Toronto's Red Kelly also turned in three goals as the Leafs came from behind and whipped the Montreal Canadiens 6-3 in the only other game played.

The victory left Toronto in undisputed possession of second place, two points behind Chicago. The Leafs and Montreal had been tied for second before the game.

Leads Team To No. 5 Spot In Poll

Arizona State's Caldwell Eyes Pro-Basketball Next

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Joe Caldwell, a 6-foot-5 junior with a lot of bounce-to-the-ounce, is a major reason Arizona State University enjoys the No. 5 ranking among the nation's basketball teams.

Caldwell's teammates have nicknamed the former Los Angeles Fremont High player Pogo. One look at him bouncing up for a rebound and the reason is obvious.

He's a 6-7 high jumper in track. Caldwell's averaging 20 points and 10 rebounds a game and has turned in some defensive work that left opponents shaking in their sneakers.

They have found it no fun to start a jump shot and suddenly find the ball neatly blocked or stolen.

Caldwell also has a burning ambition. He wants to play professional basketball.

"I want to make the pros so I can afford to move my parents out of Texas and out to the West Coast," the Negro star said. A number of his relatives live in Los Angeles.

Of the National Collegiate basketball scene, Caldwell agrees that Cincinnati is the team to beat. However he says the Sun Devils are just as eager for a shot at second-ranked Loyola.

"Those guys (Loyola) play our type of ball. It would be a great game because we're one team that can run with them."

Does he think the Sun Devils have a chance of playing either of the two this season?

"If they make it to the (NCAA) finals, we'll be there waiting for them," he said.

Rozelle Won't Give Word On Probe Yet

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League refuses to yield to heavy pressure for a quick announcement on the pro football gambling probe and maintains he must wait until all available facts have been assembled.

The NFL's annual winter meetings ended Thursday but there still was no indication when Rozelle would make a report. Will it be two weeks, a month? Or when?

"I can't say," said Rozelle in answer to reporters' questions. "We realize the importance of speed but this must be complete. I have to say, just as I have been saying since Jan. 4 when the first stories of the investigation were printed, certain allegations have been made involving a number of people. Our investigation to date has developed no indication of acts of a criminal nature."

As the owners ended their business sessions there appeared to be concern, but not panic, about the situation and the parallel preliminary probe by the Senate investigating subcommittee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

The investigation was revealed Jan. 4 when Rozelle was asked by owner-coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears to check into whispered rumors of a betting scandal.

Wisner Files $2.5 Million Fraud Suit

BOSTON (AP)—A $2.5 million slander suit has been filed by Harry Wisner and the New York Titans of the American Football League against Theodore A. (Ted) Barron of Newton, Barron's counsel.

The suit charges fraud and misrepresentation in efforts by Barron, a Boston businessman, to buy the Titans. The suit was filed in U.S. District Court Thursday.

A spokesman for Barron and Brown said they welcome the opportunity to present their case in court. He added they are contemplating action for a possible counter suit.

Wisner set forth he owns 80 per cent in the Titans.

The suit charges the defendants, representing a group of industrialists, backed down on a deal to buy the Titans for a $1.7 million. In the suit, Wisner said he expressed a willingness to sell the football club before Jan. 25, 1963, and Barron and Brown expressed a willingness to buy.

Wisner charges Barron and Barron backed out and that slanderous statements were made by the defendants to the effect that: The Titans were in a precarious franchise situation; that there was a heavy debt, and that there was involvement with American Football League headquarters.

AAU Meeting With NCAA Set Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Representatives of the Amateur Athletic Union and the U.S. Track and Field Federation will sit down here today to try to smooth out a disagreement over dual sanctioning that threatens the true arbiters less than two weeks ago by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In dispute is whether the college-supported federation is entitled under the peace pact to sanction the appearance of high school, junior college and college athletes in open meets already carrying AAU sanction.

The AAU says the MacArthur agreement specifies clearly that the AAU is the official sanctioning agent for all open meets. The federation grants an AAU sanction is necessary for open competitors but feels its own sanction is also permissible to cover enrolled students participating in the meet.

The crack in the new agreement, reached Jan. 19 at the urging of President Kennedy, developed after the federation asked what amounted to dual sanctioning of the Boston A. A. meet last Saturday night.

Kiwanians Hear Talk By Cabas

Salem Coach Tells Club About Program

Salem Head Basketball Coach John Cabas spoke on the varsity club program at the Kiwanis Club's weekly luncheon at the Memorial Building Thursday.

"We teach more than just the game of basketball, we teach a way of life through athletics at Salem," Cabas told the groups.

He pointed out that basketball in Salem is responsible for 28 boys being awarded college scholarships. Sixty boys whom he has coached have received scholarships during his career thus far, he said.

"In Salem, every boy has an equal chance to make our major sports teams, the Salem mentor commented.

"We teach sound basketball fundamentals, we don't coach the boys to play fancy. Many of our drills are devoted to teaching the boys how to shoot.

"Some of the coaches in our district erroneously believe that good basketball players are born shooters and don't need any training in this phase of the game," he said.

East Liverpool's Coach Jim Harris says, "Salem is the best shooting team we will face this year." The Quakers travel to the river city town to battle the Potomacs tonight.

Many of the area coaches that face Cabas teams over the years are always quick to point out Salem's shooting ability. The Red and Black have a 46.9 shooting percentage thus far in the campaign.

"In Salem, many fans look up to the senior high athlete to set an example of training, discipline and leadership for the youngsters who will be future stars Cabas said.

White Colleges Seek Top Negro Athletes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—White colleges searching for Negro athletic talent are closing on Jake Gaither of Florida A&M, the nation's most celebrated Negro football coach.

The latest bad news to afflict Jake's ears was a report that Wake Forest will begin actively recruiting Negro athletes, and another that Maryland will play a Negro halfback next season.

"This concerns me a great deal," Gaither moaned. "They can take my boys, but I can't take theirs. I know a lot of good white players I would like to have on my team."

He wasn't surprised, though. Gaither has had a beautiful lock on Florida's Negro high school talent, but lately he has felt it gradually slipping.

But the distinguished coach, whose teams have been perennial contenders for the national Negro championship, feels that the top Negro schools will continue to do all right, because they offer advantages a colored boy can't get in the big white schools.

"Here, they find a better social life and more satisfying comradeship," he said.

NEW STRIKE ZONE — This is how the new strike zone affects Mickey Mantle. It is now between the top of the shoulders and the knees when the batter assumes his natural stance. Formerly the strike zone was between the armpits and the top of the knees. Umpires say the change could make a difference of as much as a foot.

Quakers Entertain Poland Today

Salem Frosh Nip Liverpool 47-45

Salem's freshmen scored onemake key baskets to put the of their "sweetest wins" of the season by knocking off East Liverpool West 47-45 on the losers' court Thursday.

It was the second time this season that the Red and Black beat the River City frosh. Salem first turned the trick 27-23 Jan. 15.

The Quakers take on Poland at home this afternoon at 4. Salem nipped the Bulldogs 23-22 at Poland Jan. 22.

Coach Tom Cope's aggregation, playing without two key players, took a 15-9 lead in the initial period, held a 25-19 lead at half time and had a 33-21 margin at the end of the third stanza.

In the last few minutes of the clash, the lead changed hands several times. Jim Lantz fouled out with two minutes left. He was replaced by Gary Stoddard. Denny Miller and Stoddard

Drysdale Glad About New Strike Zone Rule In M L

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — As expected, the baseball rules committee's recent action in liberalizing the strike zone has brought sighs of relief from the pitchers and yelps from the hitters.

"It's about time they got around to doing something for the pitchers," said Los Angeles pitching ace Don Drysdale, who probably was happier signing a $46,000 Dodger contract.

"I'm glad they did it although I don't think it will affect me any. The new rule is more apt to help a pitcher like Sandy Koufax, who can really buzz that high hard one." The new strike zone—from the top of the shoulders to the knees instead of from the armpits to the top of the knees, is expected to enlarge that area by 10 inches, according to the estimate of Cal Hubbard, American League umpire-in-chief.

Sluggo Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds doesn't like the new rule at all.

"I've been in this game for nine years," he said, "and in all that time I've been trying to teach myself to lay off that high pitch on the shoulders because it's not a strike and it's a bad pitch to hit. Now, if I let it go, it will be a strike."

Mickey Mantle, who cut down his strikeout total appreciably last year, is another concerned over the rule change.

"I'll probably strike out 400 times next season," he muttered. The Yankee switchhitter fanned only 78 times in 123 games, marking one of the few times his strikeout total dipped below the century mark.

Club officials, including field managers and general managers, are virtually unanimously in favor of the new high strike rule.

"It's a great move," observed Bobby Bragan, the new manager of the Milwaukee Braves. "It will not only speed up the game but make it more interesting."

Orlando Cepeda Sends Back His '63 Contract Unsigned

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ

Associated Press Sports Writer First baseman Orlando Cepeda and the National League pennant-winning San Francisco Giants are not seeing eye-to-eye.

The big slugger thought he had eye trouble a few months ago after he failed a driver's test. But a specialist examined him, and said that Cepeda had 20-20 vision in his right eye despite a tiny cataract. Cepeda got a clean bill of health for his eyes, and he and the Giants heaved a collective sigh of relief.

The San Francisco front office found out today that the Puerto Rican star has no difficulty reading the small print. Cepeda took one look at the salary figure the Giants offered him for 1963 and returned his contract unsigned.

Indications are he was not offered a boost over the estimated $46,500 he was paid last year, but the Giants, as is baseball custom, won't talk about terms.

The 25-year-old right-handed swinger led the league in homers and runs batted in the season before last and was hitting at a .350 clip last June before he suddenly went into a tailspin. He finished the season at .306 average with 35 home runs and 114 RBI.

Cepeda joins a growing list of discontented Giants. Pitchers Jack Sanford and Juan Marichal and outfielder Felipe Alou have rejected their first contract offers, despite reported pay boosts for all three.

Wouldn't Trade Job For Ford Frick's

McManus Is One of Japan's Stars, Hit 14 Homers In '62

By BOB SALMON

Associated Press Sports Writer BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Okay, Mickey Mantle, so you hit a flock of home runs last year. But when's the last time you got a gift box of seaweed?

Which may be a rather diverse way of getting into a story about a Japanese baseball player, at that.

Japanese baseball—which ranks just below being emperor as an occupation in the minds of Nipponese fans—features such stars as Koyama, Nagashima, Muriyama, McManus.

No, that wasn't an Irish lino-type operator sneaking in with the name McManus. One of the leading players in Japanese baseball is 26-year-old Jim McManus of Brookline, who got tired of bouncing around American minor leagues a year ago with Detroit and Kansas City.

After one season as first baseman with one of Japan's top teams, the Taiyo Whales, McManus—or "Macu" as he's called by Japanese players—wouldn't trade his job for Ford Frick's.

"I just couldn't do anywhere near as well playing baseball in the United States," the 6-foot-3, 223-pound slugger said today while preparing to return for spring training.

"Not financially or any other way."

Jim, his pretty wife, Diane, and their son, Brian, 2, were provided with a six-room house, a fine salary and an interpreter. McManus went on to his 14 home runs, drive in 62 runs and bat .278 while playing only half the 130-game schedule.

Asked about the seaweed, Jim chuckled. "It's customary in Japan for a person to bring a present when visiting someone. This carries over to baseball, which is fantastically popular over there."

TALL TROPHY FOR TALL WINNER — Maurice Podoloff, National Basketball Association president, right, and Newspaper Enterprise Association sports cartoonist Murray Olderman present the President's Trophy to Bill Russell of Boston. He was voted most valuable player of 1961-62.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from THERON
at the Country Store

I was down at Columbus the other day to a hearing on this Sunday Blue Law. Right now they are working on a bill to make some changes on it. It is possible they might fix it so you couldn't even buy one food item on Sunday. Some think because the Lawson bill didn't pass in November that the majority of people want everything closed tight on Sunday. I voted against it myself but I don't feel that way. I would not want to see everything open on Sunday but I do believe most people would miss buying essentials in an emergency.

The fund need is for salaries, services, textbooks, library equipment, and that type of expenditures in the operation of the system, the board stresses.

Supt. Payne said, "the board thoroughly considered the entire situation at this special meeting and decided that there is no alternative but to inform the public of the situation and to ask for more funds to provide the present educational program."

"The board will continue to study ways to reduce expenses without denying the students the educational program they now have," he added.

Weather

ed.

Jan. 24 had a high of zero for the day, making it the fourth day in 70 years the temperature didn't rise above that mark. The other three days were Feb. 9, 10 and 11 in 1899, Copeland said.

Also on Jan. 24 the county experienced the fourth coldest average temperature as the thermometer dipped to almost 10 below. The other three days colder than that were the three February days in 1899. The high at noon on Jan. 24 was minus 8.

Seven nights in January fell to zero or below, Copeland said. The highest temperature in the 31-day period was 48 on Jan. 10.

Rainfall in January did little to bolster the outlook for drought-stricken areas. Only 1.17 inches fell, less than half of the 70-year January average of 2.8 inches. However, a snowfall that totaled 17 inches, about nine inches more than the norm, helped abate the lagging moisture supply.

Rains should be starting soon—this month or next to bring up the average precipitation level and help the dry situation which has prevailed since last spring, Copeland said.

On the bright side, too, the district should be getting some relief from the severe cold in a week—not later than mid-month, Copeland said. "It will still be winter weather, but in a much milder form," the weather observer declared.

Despite January's intense cold, it was a brighter-than-average month. The sun shone almost half the days. Five days were partly cloudy, 12 were clear and 14 were cloudy, Copeland noted.

policies and for doing it in a press release.

A domestic political issue in which Diefenbaker is being criticized by the opposition on a charge of refusing to say clearly whether Canada will accept a nuclear role. In this, the opposition blames Diefenbaker for causing the U.S. criticism.

Harkness told Commons that the U.S. note presented an obstacle to agreement with the United States on accepting nuclear weapons.

But he drew jeers and laughs when he said Canada's policy is "clear and responsible." He said the government plans the same course it has followed in the past five years.

Cries of "shame" rose from the House floor when Diefenbaker reported that the State Department statement reached the Canadian foreign ministry only a half hour before it was released to the press.

"There are well recognized channels for the exchange of points of view between sovereign countries and allies even when these points of view differ, as they must, and I express my very great regret that the United States Department of State did not see fit to follow the usual course in communicating its view," he said.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said the statement was released "in response to numerous inquiries received by the department and was designed to clarify the United States position."

Diefenbaker called the action "unprecedented."

"I weigh my words when I say that it constitutes an unwarranted intrusion in Canadian affairs," he said.

Diefenbaker said his government will "honor its obligations" and strive for understanding and cooperation with the United States.

"Canada is determined to remain a firm ally but that does not mean that she should be a satellite," he said.

He threw the rope across the cable in an effort to lower himself down into the Western zone. But his numb hands missed the rope and he plunged 40 feet to the canal towpath in the West, only a few feet beyond a clump of bushes marking the border.
